TRAIL DIFFICULTY RATINGS

"Ratings are "maximum"; i.e. most of the trail may be a rating "1", but there may be a difficult obstacle somewhere on the trail that may increase the rating to "3".

- 1. Easy; suitable for brand-new riders. Generally wide open and fairly flat, with minimal off-camber sidehills, and the occasional cross-ditch.
- 2. Moderately easy; suitable for new riders who are looking to expand their skills. Some minor off-camber sections, hill-climbs, rocks, mud, and other obstacles.
- 3. Moderate; suitable for riders with experience. Some off-camber sections, hill climbs, rocks, mud, water, and other obstacles. Some narrow or twisting areas requiring slow speeds, high shelf roads, trees, etc.
- 4. Moderately difficult; suitable for experienced riders who are looking for a bit of a challenge. May contain off-camber sidehills, rock climbing, narrow, twisting trails through the trees, steep sections, water crossings, deep mud, and plenty of the usual obstacles.
- 5. Difficult; suitable for very experienced riders only. Tough, technical trails, dirt-bike trails, tight squeezes, tires in the air, and lots of obstacles such as large rocks, bottomless mud, or deep water.

Quality Lake Trail

Distance : 12 km one way Difficulty: 2 - Moderately Easy

Quality Lake Trail

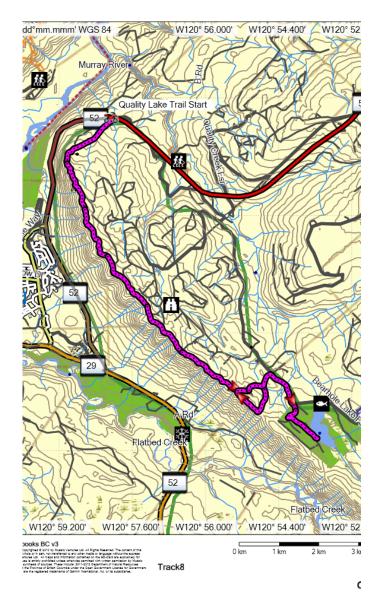

A great ride on a beautiful new trail, that follows the top of the Tumbler Ridge, and offers unparalleled views of the town of Tumbler Ridge and the Rocky Mountains to the west.

Quality Lake, at the end of the trail, is a favorite with local anglers, and is a nice place to have a lunch over a campfire before returning to town.

Travelling further up the Bearhole Lake Forestry Service Road provides access to several other trails, including Thunder Mountain.

The trail meanders through some beautiful stands of mature timber

DIRECTIONS:

The trail head is approximately 7.5 km north of Tumbler Ridge from the Co-Op bulk station and approximately 800m past the Quality Canyon trailhead, on the south side of the road. Follow the trail up to the tower overlooking town. Continue on from there, stopping at the viewpoints and benches along the way for some fantastic photo opportunities. Just before coming out onto the Bearhole Lake Forestry Service Road at km 5, the trail goes off to the right and parallels the road to km 6, where it then takes you to the back side of Quality Lake.

For those approaching from Dawson Creek the trailhead is approximately 90 km south on Highway 52 and approximately 2 km past the Quality Falls trailhead.
